

PARENTS • FAMILY EDUCATORS • LIBRARIANS • CAREGIVERS

Please join Family Reading Partnership and the Tompkins County Public Library for Baby Read-Aloud Basics!

Fun and Interactive Ways to Discover the World of Words

a presentation by author and baby read-aloud expert:

Caroline Blakemore

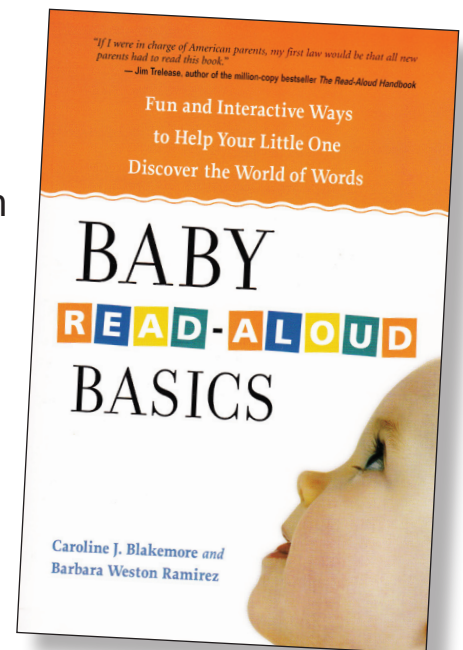

Monday June 13, 2011
8:30am - 9:30am

TCPublic Library, Borg Warner Room

Join us from 8am - 8:30am to meet Caroline and enjoy a light breakfast

Please RSVP by June 8 to jean@familyreading.org

Words are Food for the Brain!

A baby's brain is growing faster from birth to 2 years old than any other time in his or her life!

Caroline Blakemore is a certified Reading Recovery teacher who has inspired countless parents, grandparents, teachers and family service providers with her simple and effective techniques to establish daily read-aloud routines. Join the conversation and learn more about helping families provide their babies with the foundations they need to fall in love with words and stories, and to succeed as life-long learners.

"If I were in charge of American parents, my first law would be that all new parents had to read this book."

~Jim Trelease, author of "The Read Aloud Handbook," about "Baby Read-Aloud Basics"